In a beautiful kingdom of castles, forests and mountains lived a boy named Luke.

But nobody called him Luke. Everybody called him Lucky!

Lucky loved adventures.

With his little dog, Rusty, he explored forests, climbed hills and discovered places most people were afraid to visit. And he was always ready to help someone in trouble.

One morning, a royal messenger came galloping into Lucky's village.

"By order of Her Majesty the Empress!" he shouted.

"The kingdom needs a brave adventurer!"

Lucky hurried to the royal castle, with Rusty racing beside him.
The Empress was waiting on her golden throne.
"Lucky," she said, "we have a terrible problem!"

"A great dragon lives in the mountains. Every night, he comes down and attacks our sheep!"

"He kills far more than he eats. Soon, our farmers will have no sheep left!"

The Empress leaned forward.
"Knights have tried to stop him, but they all ran away!"
"Will you help us, Lucky?"
Lucky nodded. "I'll do my best, Your Majesty!"
